

TASTE OF HONEY

Taste Of Honey is the club-focused project created by Italian producers and DJs Danny Omich and Patrizio Mattei.

Built around a simple philosophy — no trends, just real club music — Taste Of Honey explores the deeper and more contemporary side of house music, blending groove-driven rhythms, infectious vocals and dancefloor-focused production.

Drawing on decades of experience as producers, label owners and international charting artists, the duo created Taste Of Honey as a platform for musical freedom, where underground influences meet modern club culture without limitations or formulas.

Their productions have gained support from DJs and club audiences worldwide while regularly appearing on leading dance music platforms such as Traxsource and Beatport. Through a combination of timeless grooves, modern production techniques and an uncompromising approach to quality, Taste Of Honey continues to deliver music designed for one purpose only: moving dancefloors.

From house to deep house and beyond, Taste Of Honey represents the pure club vision of Danny Omich and Patrizio Mattei, bringing together experience, passion and an authentic love for dance music.
